About the work

Double Vision presents collaborative project between artists, Jamie Greenfield and Madelaine Shellaby. It reflects, and is determined by, existing similarities of intention and a progression of possibilities that stem from dialogue and critique going forward in their respective bodies of work. Recently, they discovered they had both been working in a stream of consciousness way: looking inward to memory, and outward to the immediate environment for subject matter. The resulting drawings and digital montages reflect a common vision of fields of energy and awareness: what may be seen, felt, and known.
