

Registration for MCCC winter session is open

Enrollment is open for Mercer County Community College's (MCCC) winter session, which provides opportunities to earn college credits online or on campus during winter break. The courses are open to students from other colleges.

Online courses, offered through Mercer's Virtual College, begin Dec. 20 and run for six weeks. Students can study from home or office at their convenience. Included are classes in business law, philosophy, English, nutrition, history, psychology and Spanish II.

The on-site classes begin Jan. 3 and run for three weeks at both the West Windsor and James Kerney campuses. The classes meet three to four days per week and are offered both days and evenings. Courses will cover diverse topics in business, chemistry, economics, literature, history, mathematics, fitness, culinary arts, photography and more.

MCCC offers assistance with financial aid as well as academic counseling, tutoring and career services.

For a list of classes offered during MCCC's winter session, visit www.mccc.edu/winter.

