

Homework Assignments for NRS 125 for SUMMER!!!!

1) What kind of learner are you? Go to <http://www.educationplanner.org/students/self-assessments/learning-styles-quiz.shtml> to find out!

- Please email your name and results to me at leef@mccc.edu by June 25th

2) Define respiration. Understand bradypnea and tachypnea and name (3) nursing interventions to assist your patient with an alteration in respiration.

3) What is cardiac output and what is its relationship to perfusion?

4) What are (2) important lifespan considerations related to intracranial regulation?

5) What is the difference between dementia and delirium and how would your plan of care change for each diagnosis?

6) What is the greatest risk factor for alterations in mobility and why?

7) What role does diet play in the management of type 1 and type 2 diabetes?

8) What are some important teaching points that should be used with the patient who has an alteration in sensory perception? Include teaching points for the hospital and home setting.

9) What role does community based education play with patients who have a history of hypersensitivity reactions?

10) What process do nurses use to help prevent infection? What is another type of infection prevention strategy and where would you see this strategy used?