Procedure:

1.   Nursing students will be held accountable to the program requirements and program policies outlined in the Nursing Program Handbook for each current academic semester. Current semester nursing program handbooks are available on the nursing program website. Students are required to print an updated copy each semester.

2.   Should a student need to withdraw for any reason or be unsuccessful in a course and have to return to the nursing program after an interruption to their expected progression in the program, they will then be held accountable to the policies and standards in effect for the nursing program at the time of their return.

3.   Students will be notified, via Mercer student email and the Nursing Program website, of any changes to nursing program requirements, policies or standards at the time the change is made.
