

Earning an online bachelor's degree in nursing provides you with opportunities for career advancement and a sense of personal fulfillment. BSN-LINC, University of Wisconsin–Green Bay's National Online RN to BSN Program, is a nurse-friendly solution for registered nurses who have an associate degree or three-year diploma. This convenient program allows you to pursue your baccalaureate degree without giving up your present job or spending long periods of time away from home. In fact, you will never need to set foot on the campus! You can learn as you earn!

What our recent graduates have to say about BSN-LINC:

"I researched several other online programs, but most were not accredited or backed by a major university system. The BSN-LINC program was both—and it was flexible enough to allow me to continue my full-time employment. I am very proud to be an alumna of the University of Wisconsin–Green Bay Nursing Program."

Cherry Pfau, Land O' Lakes, Florida

"Having the ability to try a course before formally enrolling was important in choosing the best program for me."

Deborah Costello, Chelmsford, Massachusetts

"The UW–Green Bay online program made the dream of attaining a bachelor's degree in nursing possible. The program is flexible, and as a single working mom, that was a priority for me. The advisers, instructors, and tech support folks made this program fly."

Lori Anne Wachter, Magnolia, New Jersey

"Faculty and tech support are quick to remedy any issues that arise. This program is a perfect complement for the working person who wishes to continue their education."

Tim Yue, Deephaven, Minnesota

BSN-LINC

BSN-LINC courses are offered over the Internet. Complete your class work using your home computer and go online at whatever time of day your schedule allows. Technical and academic support is only an e-mail or toll-free phone call away. You can even try us out without completely enrolling in the program. Simply register as a “Special Student” and take a class to see how online learning and BSN-LINC work for you!

How do I apply for admission?

Classes start three times per year. You can apply online for fall, spring, or summer session through the BSN-LINC Web site, <http://bsn-linc.wisconsin.edu>. Click “Apply Now.”

Is there academic advising available?

The Professional Nursing Program at UW–Green Bay has academic advisers assigned to the BSN-LINC program. They are available to discuss the program, determine appropriate course work, and answer any questions you have. You may contact an adviser toll free at 1-877-656-1483.

Is BSN-LINC fully accredited?

Yes. You’ll earn your BSN from UW–Green Bay, one of the nation’s most highly respected distance learning programs for nurses. BSN-LINC is accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education.

How many classes will I need to take?

We have a liberal credit transfer policy. The baccalaureate degree is 120 credits. You will be awarded 57-60 credits for your associate degree or diploma. The remaining credits include 30 credits of upper-level nursing classes and 30-33 credits of non-nursing classes.

You will be awarded credit for college courses completed beyond your associate degree or diploma. To discuss your individual situation, contact an advisor toll free at 1-877-656-1483.

How long will it take to complete the degree?

This depends on how many credits you need and how many credits you register for each semester. You can take as long as you need to complete the degree. Our students typically attend school part-time and earn their degrees in one to four years.

How many clinicals are there?

Community Health Nursing has a practicum component. UW–Green Bay will work with you to arrange the practicum in your home state as close to your area of residence as possible. It is a 3-credit course with time spent at public health and other community agencies.

Is financial assistance available?

Yes, it is! Fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) online at www.fafsa.ed.gov or mail it to the processor listed on the FAFSA. Our financial aid school code is 003899. To be eligible for financial aid you must take at least 6 credits per semester or 3 credits over summer session. Feel free to call the financial aid office at 920-465-2075 or send an e-mail to finaids@uwgb.edu. Talk with your employer to see whether tuition reimbursement is available.
