A. GENERAL OBJECTIVES

1. This course enables the student to study an instrument or voice on an individual basis. The scope of study must be determined on an individual basis; whether a beginning student or a student who has had previous instruction. (MCCC Core Skills B, D, F and G)
2. The basic premise of the course will be to give the student a basic technical grounding in the area being studied. More advanced students may be subjected to a wider study of music literature available for that particular instrument or voice. (MCCC Core Skills D, E, F and G)
3. For those contemplating a career in music there will be more stress upon certain required skills at each level to assure that the student will be on the appropriate musical level in case of a transfer to a 4 year school. Those taking the course for their own benefit will be given more latitude in terms of developing the necessary skills for playing a given instrument or for voice. (MCCC Core Skills B, D, E, F and G)
