

PROACTIVE POLICE SUPERVISION

Instructed by

Retired Chief Denis E. Connell, Ed.D
of the
Clark, N.J. Police Department

This course is a three (3) day seminar designed for sergeants and lieutenants assigned as patrol supervisors. This course focuses on the operational aspects of first line supervision with special emphasis on those likely supervisory challenges one may expect to encounter. It fuses the actual practice of law enforcement with its theoretical foundation by integrating relevant New Jersey case law, court rules, statutory law and Attorney General Guidelines. Included are reviews of supervisory responsibilities, involuntary commitment, civil liability, summons/warrant criteria, bounty hunters, eviction, ATRA and more. This course is recommended for recently promoted first line supervisors and for veteran supervisors in search of substantive procedural review.
