

A Very Special Event for Education Majors!

Join your classmates and instructors for dinner and discussion at the 2nd
Education Symposium

Women & Higher Education in America

Dr. Lucia McMahon, an associate professor of history at William Paterson University, will discuss her research about early American women and their identity within higher education. Her book, Mere Equals: The Paradox of Educated Women in the Early American Republic, details the experience of educated women in a time marked by inequality between the sexes. This is an important discussion for all educators. If you are currently taking an education course, consult your instructor for extra-credit incentives.

When: Wednesday, April 24th 2013 @ 6:00 PM

Where: Conference Center, Mercer, West Windsor

Guest Speaker: Dr. Lucia McMahon, Associate Professor History, William Paterson University

Contact: Prof. Theresa Capra, caprat@mccc.edu
